Between 2:30 and 7 p.m. on 17 May 1951, single-engine low-wing monoplanes with in-line engines were parked in two rows in the northeastern corner of Brandenburg-Arado airfield. Fifty-eight planes were counted in the first row, but many gaps were seen in the second row, therefore a total of about 80 planes were estimated there. Except for 12 single-engine low-wing monoplanes, which took off at about 2 p.m. there was no other flying at the field. The 12 planes were not observed landing. The weather was hazy. No radio installation or AA gun emplacement was seen. Truck [REDACTED] and a tank truck [REDACTED] were seen. *

25X1A * [REDACTED] Comment. One ground attack regiment has been believed to be stationed in Brandenburg-Arado. Aircraft exceeding the authorized strength of one ground attack regiment have been recently observed at the field. Therefore, it is believed that either an additional ground attack regiment is now stationed at the field, or the ground attack regiment previously stationed there has been equipped with more aircraft so that the total number exceeds the authorized strength.
